Listing Syndication Q&A and Instructions

What is Listing Syndication?

Using the Roster system, Brokers choose which third-party websites where they want their firm's listings to automatically appear.

Who feeds our listings to these sites?

• NorthstarMLS: Depending on the site, the data is fed through either The MLS Grid (via the NorthstarMLS database) or a direct feed from NorthstarMLS.

Who can make the site syndication selections for our brokerage?

Only individuals who have "Head Broker" permissions in the NorthstarMLS Add/Edit system. If you need to know who in your firm has these permissions, contact your Association.

What sites can we syndicate to via NorthstarMLS?

- Broker Reciprocity (IDX): Public websites of brokers/agents who are NorthstarMLS Participants. Includes Zillow.com and Homes.com.
- Brevitas.com: The Commercial Listings partner of the National Association of Realtors
- Realtor.com: Nationwide consumer search site. Conforms to Fair Display guidelines.
- RPR License for Automated Valuation Models: NAR's Realtors Property Resource (RPR) is an agent-only tool. Uses aggregate data to aid in more accurate automated valuations
- CoreLogic License for Automated Valuation Models: The vendor for the Matrix MLS system, uses aggregate data to aid in more accurate automated valuations for a variety of real estate products and services

Can we exclude specific listings from syndication?

Yes. When you enter a listing into the NorthstarMLS Add/Edit system, there is a section called "Internet" with the question "Display Listing on Internet?" Answer "No" to that question to withhold that specific listing from IDX sites, and from syndication to the third-party Internet sites distributed to through NorthstarMLS.
